

Reminder of the daily images that you need to add to the document you shared with me (pg 2 here)

Also, for testers, there is a change, highlighted below.

Roles

Every person needs to take on a production role:

- Testers need to take on a different role than in the last film production
- All may take on two roles, and roles may be shared
- Only if someone is able and willing to write a screenplay over break can the screenwriter role be taken.
- Must indicate by the end of class on Tuesday, 12/18 (on back of calendar, #4)

Daily Journal

All: On each work day, you must add two images with captions to a daily online journal. These images should capture your role (as best you can at the different stages) and your contributions in general to the production.

Testers: in addition to the two daily images with captions, you must reflect on your role ~~twice-weekly~~. JUST ONCE PER WEEK, checked on the dates highlighted below Here are some starter ideas provided by IB, or you can reflect however you choose. Be sure to be specific, use film language, and write no less than a couple paragraphs for each entry. This will be required for the three weeks in January (checked on: 1/6, 1/13, and 1/27).

Your first official work day is tomorrow, Tuesday, December 18.

So by the end of the day tomorrow, you all need to share your “journal” with at least two images.

Non-Testers: create something you can share with me that you can add pictures with captions that is updatable (use a blog like Weebly, Wordpress, Google’s Blogger – or just use Google Docs). And share the link with images BEFORE the end of the day tomorrow.

Testers: You will be adding to your Film Production Journal that you have already shared with me. For this production, do some re-arranging on your document: 1) put the new production role/s at the top of the document, 2) highlight (literally) the role, and 3) add your working title.

- Suggestion for all: just do the above now!

You should add the images daily – you will get a couple (maybe 3!) “passes” for being late on adding pictures, so at the least – make-up these delayed entries by the Sunday night (8pm).

Absences: If you are absent, you will need to make-up the needed daily images (you can do this by adding at least four images the day after your absence, or while you are absent, you can capture and add images that relate to your role – like a still from a fav. movie with a captions that relates to your role).
