

Children of Men (2006)
Directed by Alfonso Cuarón

You all already have notes from re-watching the scene, you now have a bookmark that reminds you of all you have learned. As a group, analyze your scene from Children of Men.

On the poster, in an organized and readable way, describe all you can about the scene. There may be some things you list, but more of your notations should describe the “whys” and “how do you know” - Watch the scene again, look up information, look at the screenplay (it is posted on today’s date on the class website), discuss...

The more you can see, understand, and describe the better. This is a challenge: there are two groups doing the same scene – the group who is able to analyze the scene with more detail and explanation will get a better grade.

Notes:

- 1) add a title that is/includes movie name;
- 2) while it may be hard – especially for the later scenes, do not outwardly give away the movie (ie: be subtle, don’t say “the baby” or “the birth” etc.);
- 3) in the corner/s of the poster, review the movie with a tweet-length statement (each of you can take a corner; you can collectively write a review statement on one or two corners...) be brief/succinct
- 4) these posters will be put up, please be sure they are neat and legible – if you want to write on paper and glue it on – or type & print parts in an efficient manor, you can do that.
