

Your Final Film

This is the same info pulled from the initial assignment...

A three-minute (or less) a music video or re-created well-known movie scene

Timing: Film due Thursday, June 7

Class Time: beginning Wednesday, the days are yours to work through the due date (6/8), though look at the calendar, there are many abbreviated days.

- you have a few mornings where you do not start school until very late; take advantage of this

Grading: The final film will account for most of your semester exam grade.

Graded on:

- 1) a film focus: choose one of these you will give most attention to: a) editing, b) framing & composition (cinematography), c) lighting, or d) sound (<-not an option for music video, obviously)
- 2) general film language (using what you've learned to the best of your ability/resources)
- 3) telling a story and/or getting across an emotion (understandable w/ audience appeal)
- 4) length and inclusion of title & your name/s in opening and/or closing credits

Notes:

Music Video: you CANNOT remake a music video; you need to create an original film to go along with the song of your choice.

Remake: You can make an exact replica, exact camera angles, exact choreography, or think about movie re-makes, some try to be exact, others create a new or updated version of the original.... either type has its successes and failures.

Show off your film knowledge and film language to create something original, fun, and good. And as always, you can employ others outside of class to work with you/act in your film.

Shot list or story board (or other written plan) due before filming starts.
